The President's Message to Americans Who do Their Duty

PRESIDENT WILSON had no formal address prepared for the ceremonies held on May 11 at the Brooklyn navy yard for the men killed at Vera Cruz. Secretary Daniels read to him the names of the nineteen American dead in whose honor the services were held. The President's reply was delivered with slow impressiveness. His voice was low and fervent and his face was grave.

THE PRESIDENT SAID:
"Mr. Secretary, I know that the feelings which characterize all who stand about me and the whole nation at this hour are not feelings which can be suitably expressed in terms of attempted oratory or eloquence. They are feelings too deep for ordinary speech. For my own part, I have a singular mixture of feelings. The feeling that is uppermost is one of profound grief that these men should have had to go to their death."

"And yet there is mixed with that grief a profound pride that they should have gone as they did, and if I may say it, out of my heart, a touch of envy of those who were permitted so quietly, so nobly, to do their duty."

"Have you thought of it, men? Here in the center of the navy, the list of the men—officers, and enlisted, men and marines—and suddenly there swim nineteen stars out of the list, men who have suddenly gone into the firmament of memory, where we shall always see their names shine; not because they called on us to admire them, but because they served us without asking any questions, and in the performance of a duty which is laid on us as well as on them."

"Duty is not an uncommon thing, gentlemen. Men are performing it in the ordinary walks of life all around us, all the time, and they are making great sacrifices to perform it. What gives men like these peculiar distinction is not merely that they did their duty, but that their duty had nothing to do with them or with their own personal and peculiar interests."

"They did not give their lives for themselves; they gave their lives for us because we called on them as a nation to perform an unexpected duty."

"That is the way in which men grow distinguished, and that is the only way—by serving somebody else than themselves."

"And what greater thing could you serve than a nation such as this we love and are proud of?"

"Are you sorry for these men? Are you sorry for the way they will be remembered? Does it not quicken your pulses to think of the list of them? I have to God none of you may join the list, but if you do, you will join an immortal company."

"So, while you are profoundly sorrowful, and while there goes out of our hearts a very deep and affectionate sympathy for the friends and relatives of these men—who for the rest of their lives will mourn them, though with a touch of pride—we know why we do not go away from this occasion cast down, but with our heads lifted and our eyes on the future of this country, with absolute confidence of how it will be worked out; not only the more vague future of this country, but the immediate future."

"We have gone down to Mexico to serve mankind, if we can find out the way. We do not want to fight the Mexicans; we want to serve the Mexicans if we can, because we know how we would like to be loved and how we would like to be served. If there were friends standing by ready to serve us."

"A war of aggression is not a war in which it is a proud thing to die, but a war of service is a thing in which it is a proud thing to die. Notice that these men were of our blood—men of our American blood, which is not drawn from any one country; which is not drawn from any one stock, which is not drawn from any one language of the modern world, but from men everywhere have sent their sons and their brothers and their daughters to this country in order to make that great compounded nation which consists of all the sturdy elements and of all the best elements of the whole globe."

LAXATIVE FOR OLD PEOPLE—"CASCARETS"

Sells, Calomel and Pills act on Liver and Bowels like Pepper acts in Nostrils—Danger!

Get a 10-cent box now. Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles. So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep—advertisment.

"You used to say that I should never want for anything." That was before I knew your capacity for wanting.—Detroit Free Press.
